

SMALL TORTOISESHELL

BUTTERFLY

(Aglais urticae)

IUCN Red List: Not listed

- * These butterflies are widespread all over Ireland and the UK .
- * They can be found all the way to Korea!
- * They can be found throughout the year and in large numbers in autumn.
- * They are often found hibernating in homes during the winter.
- * You can find them near nettles as their larvae are reliant on nettle plants for food.

AN ÓIGE - IRELAND

